

Full Report to State Board of Directors April 8, 2006
By State Coordinator, Moose Wittrock

Today we are going to have a very productive meeting. Why? Because the topic for us to remember is: simple works.

I hear of issues from members why are issues so drawn out. Well we shouldn't get stuck in such detailed processes.

Every member is a resource. A very important resource. But we must remember for an action there's a reaction. Communication is a very important action. The organization should breathe this as a whole.

Committees are our lungs. Think of committee members as lobes in a lung. They inhale information and give the information to the membership. Our blood of our existence. But if the committee(s) don't use the vast passages of communication, then that flow is impeded.

We will have situations internally that will take a certain amount of time to solve. But how we invest that time shouldn't be greater than the time we use for the pursuit of productive progress.

Keeping a disciplined attitude for the membership and the organization can be trying. A diet of freelancing or individual self centered progressions most likely will result in a lot of erosion in membership as well as A.N.I.'s integrity. At times we'll need to get the ok green light on issues, but that's part of the flow of A.N. I.

Oh, and about that communication between each other. Lick it and stick it! Someone correct me if I am wrong. But stamps have been around for a long time and everyone does have an address. Yes/No? Lets be convenient to our membership and not ourselves.
